

The image shows a close-up of the top half of an iPod shuffle. The device has a silver-colored outer ring and a textured grey central button. On the silver ring, there are four touch-sensitive controls: a grey 'X' icon at the top-left, a double grey arrow pointing left at the top-right, a double grey arrow pointing right at the bottom-left, and a grey vertical bar at the bottom-right. The central button features a white triangle pointing downwards. The text 'iPod shuffle' is printed in black across the center of the device.
